

ABSTRACT

Methods and apparatus for merging critical sections are disclosed. An example disclosed system estimates the cost of merging a first critical section and a second critical section using a dataflow analysis on the first and second critical sections. In the example system, the first critical section and the second critical section are merged based on a least expensive cost of merging critical sections.